GOALS

The ((NHSS-2019)) aims to:

- ▶ Provide high scientific program for academics, researchers, graduate students from all over the world. The conference agenda includes variety of majors and specializations that meet in one place to exchange scientific research topics with experts.
- ▶ Promote international relations between countries of East Asia, China, Middle East, Europe and United States by making Istanbul the meeting point for researchers in East and West.
- ▶ Create a scientific environment to display the recent inventions and see what scientists and researchers from other universities reach in the academic fields and in the contemporary methods of teaching
- ▶ Engage graduate students in such conference to enhance their values of creativity and research and to strengthen their confidence through competition and invention and to encourage them to work as a one soul universal team.

▶ Exchange ideas and experiences between participants from different universities in the world, which leads to establish strong international relations between researchers through our institution that aims for more cooperation in the future.

▶ Facilities for Researchers

The management of the conference will present all the facilities for researches including:

▶ All sent researches to the conference will be submitted to the scientific committee for scientific evaluation. All participated researches will be published in an authentic scientific journal after evaluation. A conference handbook will be published afterwards to include all conference events and a summary of the accepted researches.

Certificates of participation will be given to the participants from SCHW-LAR management and will be accredited by Academy of Engineering Sciences (Sudan).

▶ Conference management will provide all services needed to hold a conference such as organizing conference sessions, providing refreshments during sessions, breaks, and lunch.

The conference management will nominate a number of hotels with lower prices along with transportation from the hotel to the university and vice versa. The announcement about the hotels will be made in three weeks before the conference to give the researchers enough time to reserve the hotel. The management of the conference will not be responsible for paying the residency fees.

▶ Certificate of attendance will be given to participants who did not submit a research.
